Turkish textile exporters organized a fair, I Of The World, in New York to promote the country's textile products.

The two-day event kicked off on Jan. 21 with 32 Turkish companies joining.

The first-ever fair was organized by Istanbul Textile and Raw Materials Exporters' As-

Turkish Deputy Trade Minister Rıza Tuna Turagay stressed the U.S. is a significant and major market in the textile sector.

While the U.S.' textile and apparel imports are around $100 billion annually, Turkey has its share with some $1 billion exports to the U.S. in these sectors, said the official.
